REVIEW

Of Division Friday and Sunday—Hanna and Herrick are coming in on Saturday.

General Dick announced today that there would be a grand division review on Sunday afternoon and on Friday afternoon.

General Dick announced that he had received information that Senator M. A. Hanna and Col. M. T. Herrick would be in camp Saturday and review the grand division parade Sunday.

NEW INSPECTION.

The officers of the Fourth regiment saw that a new inspection will be held of those companies that were found deficient but they will not get their new guns until after they arrive at home.

THIRD REGIMENT.

The Third regiment under Col. Harry E. Mead took up the camp routine Tuesday morning. Captain G. W. Leonard, Co. D, Urbana, is officer of the day, Lieutenant O. A. True senior and Lieutenant Henderson junior officer of the guard.

GOVERNOR IS RIDING.

Governor Nash has entirely disregarded the orders of his physician forbidding him to ride horseback, and was out early this morning reviewing the Fourth regiment's drill with Gen. Dick, Major Rogers and Captain Herron.

FOURTH REGIMENT.

The detail for the Fourth regiment Tuesday was Captain E. D. Wilson, Co.

D. Marion, officer of the day, Lieutenants Andrews and Demorest officers of the guard.

Colonel Ammel of the Fourth is considerably crippled with rheumatism and is unable to perform mounted duty, Lieutenant Colonel Bargar doing this work in his stead.

UP AND DOING.

The recent criticisms of the Ohio Guard which the regular army board made to Washington have stimulated the determination to remove all cause for criticism. It is there that most of the work necessary to bring the organization up to what the regular officers think it should be must be done by the companies at their homes, but it is true, also, that everyone on the highest to the lowest can get on impetus in the right direction from this camp and it seems to be the general feeling that everyone is going to get that impetus from this camp.

COL. BUNDY

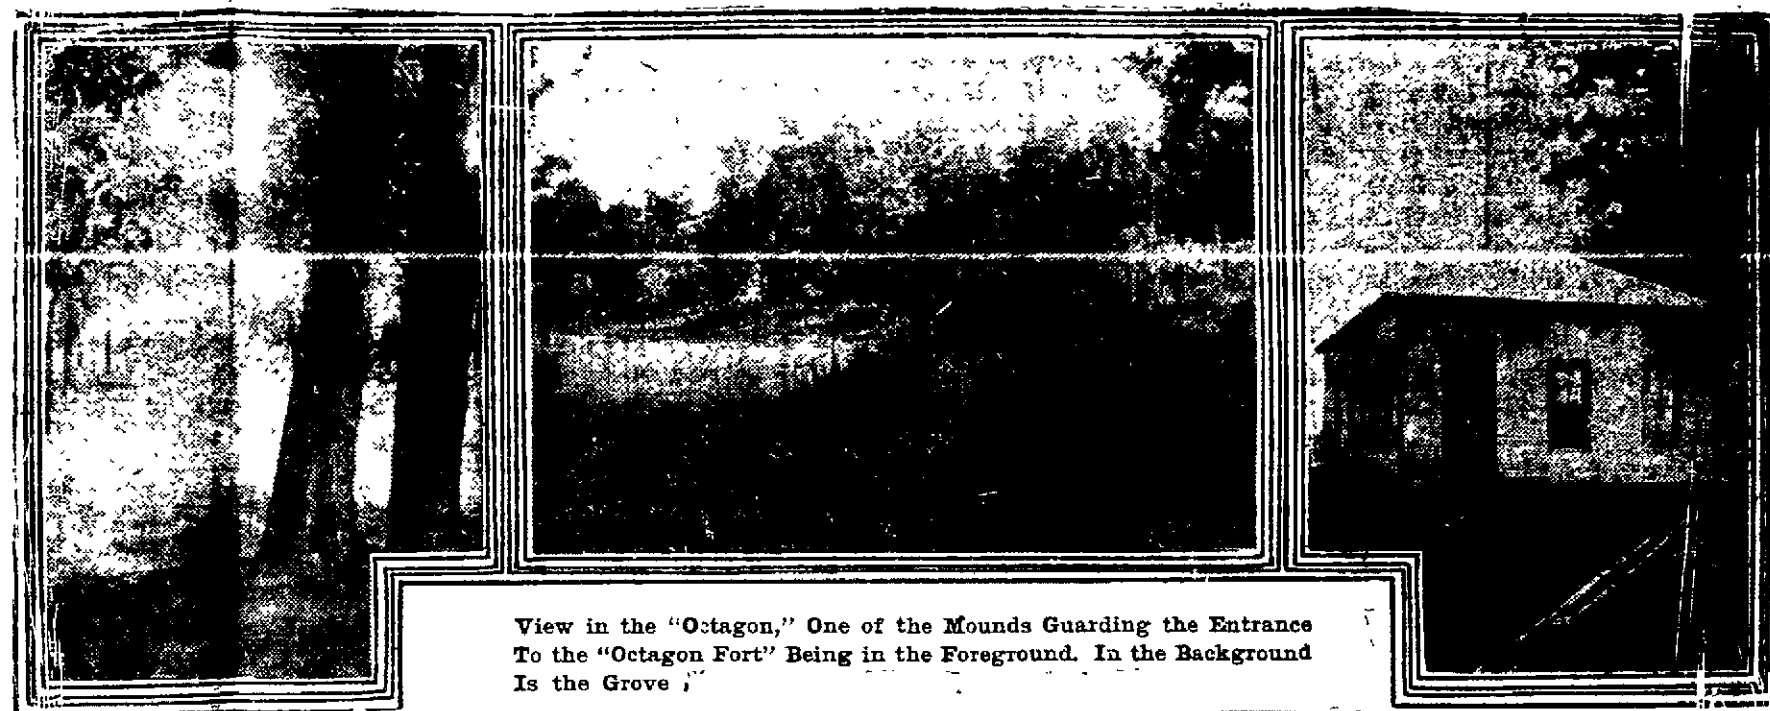

Battalion of First Regiment Will Attend Funeral Accompanied by the Regimental Band.

Last night he following order on Col. Bundy's death was issued: General Orders No. 8.

Camp William McKinley, Aug. 18—The division commander announces with profound sorrow the untimely death of Col. William E. Bundy, commanding the First Infantry which occurred at Cincinnati, Ohio, the 16th inst, where he was under orders to attend the annual encampment.

He was a splendid soldier and a true gentleman, and had endeared himself to all the officers of the division who enjoyed his acquaintance. To the regiment which he commanded he was a distinct inspiration. His energy, enthusiasm and high intelligence gave him a quick grasp of military duties and his administration marked a great gain for the organization he commanded. His admirable personal and military qualities made him justly popular with his rank and file.

His death in the very prime of manhood is a distinct loss to his regiment to the service and to the state.

As a mark of respect the camp flag will be displayed at half mast between reveille and retreat until the body is interred. The colors of his late regiment will be draped and its officers will wear the usual badge of mourning for 30 days. This order will be published at retreat to each regiment battalion, troop battery and separate battalion.

The commanding officers of the First regiment will detail one battalion and the band to proceed to Cincinnati on the 19th inst to perform escort duty during the funeral service. Chaplain H. Henderson officer of the sad escort will make his own arrangements for travelling to Cincinnati and will make said trip with the least possible interference with the regular camp routine the entire escort returning to camp immediately after the obsequies are completed.

The travel enjoined is necessary for the public service.

By command of Major General D. K. Geo. M. Wright, Lt. Col. & A. A. G. Adjutant General.

MAP OF THE CAMP GROUND.

The location of the troops at Camp McKinley is as follows:

The Cleveland Engineers and Battery A of Cleveland, the Fourth, Fifth, Seventh and Eighth regiments are in the Octagon Fort. Within the circle (19 acres) are the Second and Third regiments and the First Brigade headquarters.

Southwest of the circle, in the same place as last year the First or Cincinnati regiment is in camp.

The Sixth, from Toledo, pitched tents in the space between the Octagon and Circle, just west of the wall uniting those two forts.

To the southwest from this camp are Troop A, Battery B, Battery H. Northwest from the Octagon are Battery D, of Toledo, and Troop B. (Governor's Guard), of Columbus.

In the grove south of the Octagon and east of the Circle are Division and Second Brigade headquarters and the Signal Corps. South of the grove are located the Ninth Battalion of Colored troops.

ARDUOUS

Work of Camp is Collection and Distribution of Provisions to Large Body of Men.

The most arduous work of the camp is that which is now practically completed under the supervision of Chief Quartermaster Col. Moulton Hawk, of Toledo, and Chief Commissary Col. Harry Freese of Canton. The work in this latter department consists in ordering and issuing rations for the men, and the system is so elaborate yet perfectly carried out as to command the admiration of even a civilian, unused to military red tape and methods of book-keeping.

Every day at noon Col. Freese receives from the commissaries of the different organizations, requisitions for what will be required the day following in the way of provisions. This is turned over to Major M. A. Fisher of Canton, commissary of the Second Brigade, a member of Gen. Speaks' staff, who is acting as receiving officer of the division commissariat. He ascertains the amounts of the different articles required, and after looking over his stores determines what he has on stock, and what is needed. Whatever is not on hand is ordered through Charles Conrad the grocer, who delivers it to Major Fisher to be checked up again, so that what has been ordered is delivered.

The requisitions and stores are then turned over to Major C. B. Wilcox of General McMaken's staff who is the issuing officer and they are then issued to the commissary of each organization.

TURKS MUST FIGHT.

Russia Can Not Much Longer Delay Intervention to Prevent Further Bloodshed in the Balkans—Bazouks on the War Path.

London, Aug. 18—(Bulletin)—A Sofia dispatch reports a six hours' battle near Monastir where three Turkish battalions attacked 1,000 insurgents. The Turks were repulsed with a loss of 210 men killed or wounded. The insurgents' loss is not given.

Constantinople, Aug. 18—Four Greeks, men of considerable power in their neighborhood, have been murdered near Monastir. Their bodies were cut up and hung on trees. As a result of this act and others of a similar nature, the president of the Macedonia Greeks has appealed to the Porte to issue rifles to Greeks that they may be in position to protect themselves.

Vienna, Aug. 18—The action of Turkey in calling to the colors 52 fresh battalions of the army corps in her European possessions is taken in well-informed circles as an indication that the Porte has reached the conclusion that the Turk's time is near at hand when he will have to fight for his existence in Europe and that the struggle cannot much longer be avoided.

The murder of Dr. Malderstrom, successor of M. Rostkowski, the Russian consul at Monastir, has further complicated the situation and it is difficult to see how Russia can avoid taking action which will protect the lives of her diplomatic agents in European Turkey.

This is the third of them that has been killed in the past few months.

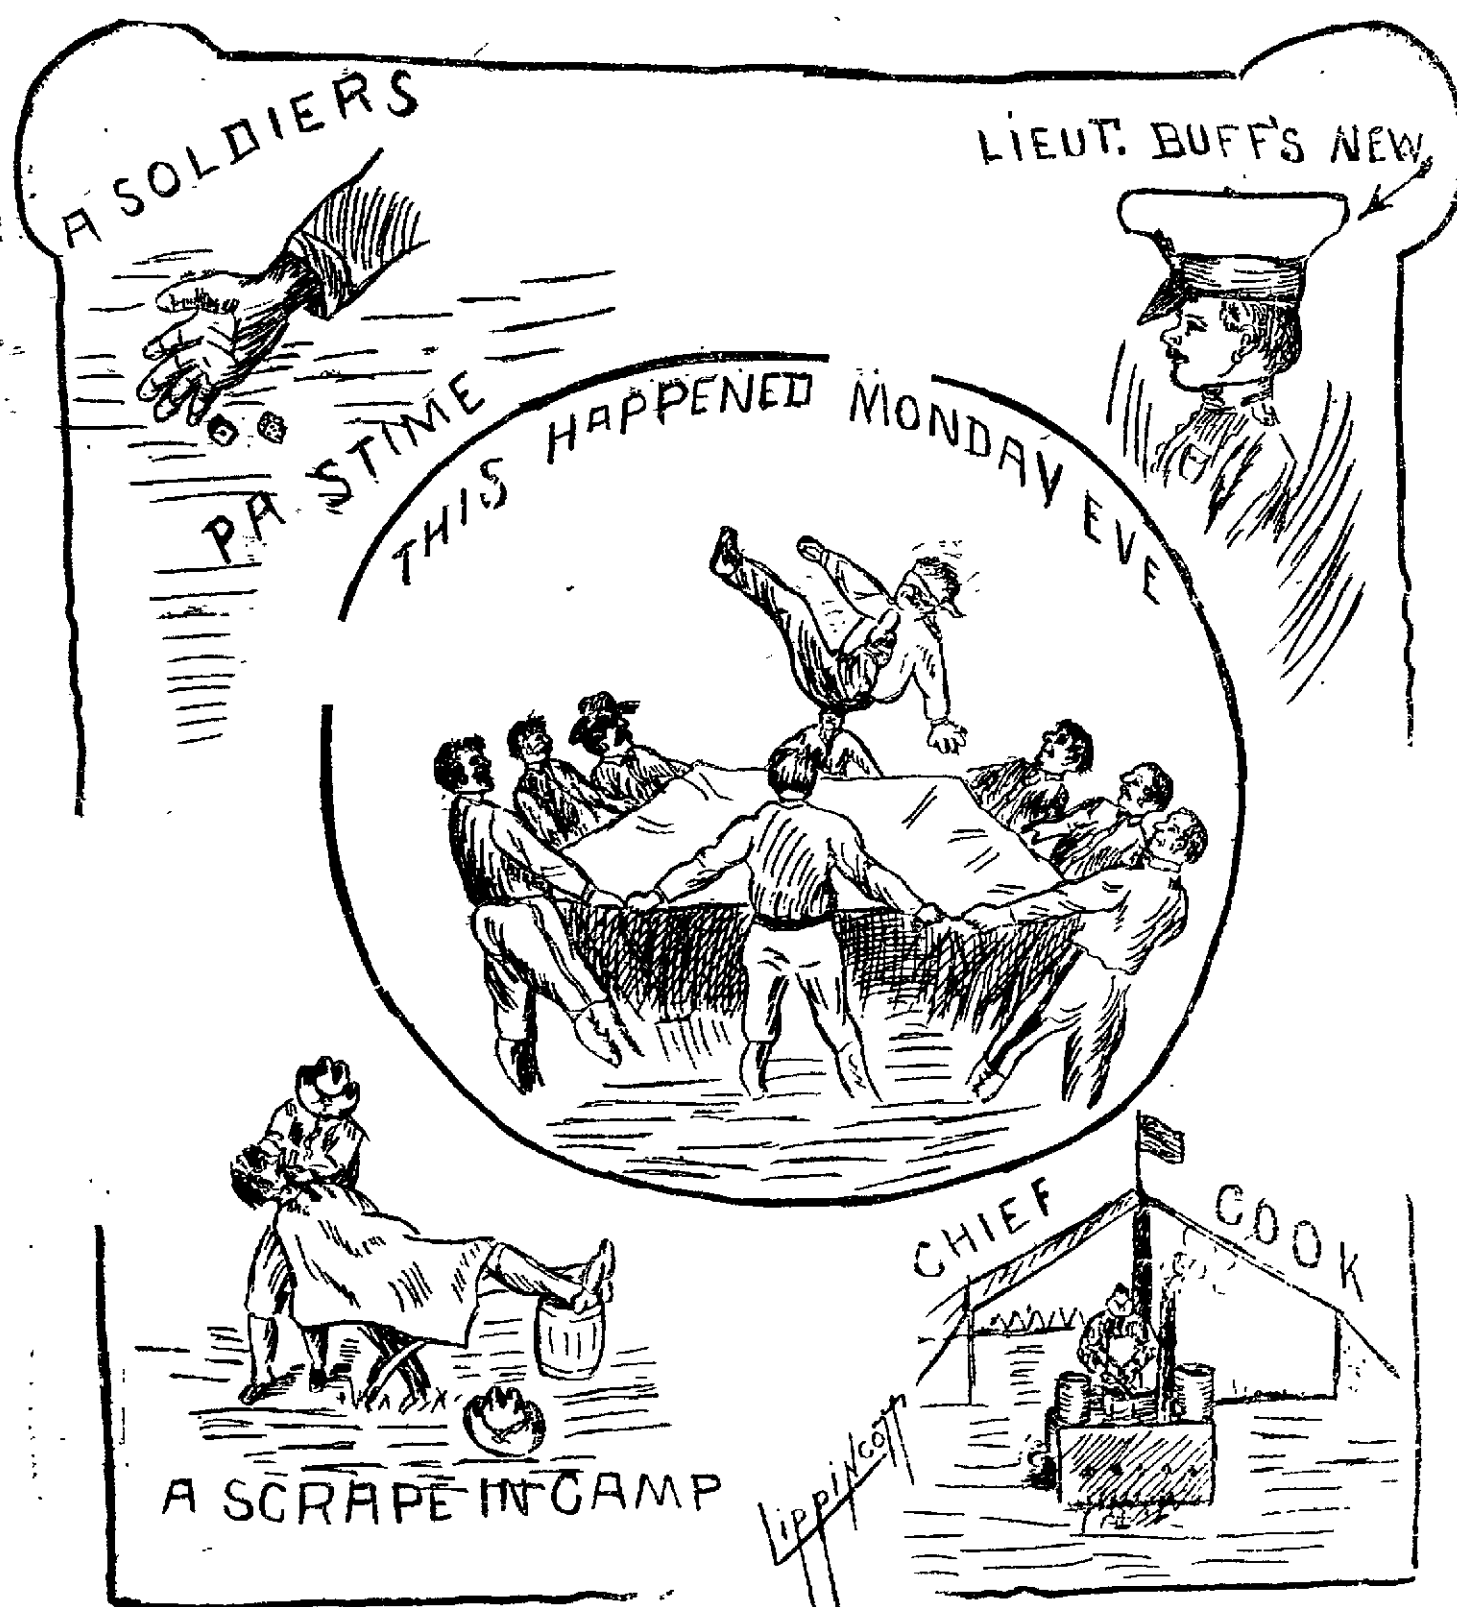

The only way in which she can act is on Turkey direct. She has no power and little influence over the revolutionary forces, whose only hope is embroiling her with the Ottoman government.

That Russia can crush Turkey is a matter on which there are no two opinions, but it is equally certain that there are no braver fighting men in the world than the Turks and that she would prove so tough a nut even for the Russian bear to crack that he would have to turn his entire attention to the job for a while, in the meantime, laying himself open to attack in China.

From Sofia, Bulgaria, Gettlinge and Bucharest comes news that the governments of Bulgaria, Serbia, Montenegro and Roumania are making active preparations for the accumulation of war supplies and perfecting plans for the rapid and effective mobilization of their armies in case of necessity.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 18—A dispatch received here from Uskub says that 600 Bashi Bazouks under the command of Albanian chiefs who are notoriously cruel, have pillaged and destroyed a number of Christian villages in the districts of Debre and Okrida.

The Turkish authorities, it is added, connived at the outrages and furnished the Bashi Bazouks with uniforms in order that they might appear to be regular soldiers.

ization who distributes them to the companies.

Each commissary reports each day how many men are in his organization to whom rations are to be issued, and 40 cents per day is allowed. We will take a concrete example asking round numbers, with out any attempt at accuracy except as illustrating methods.

The commissary of the Sixth Infantry on Monday noon sends in a requisition to Col. Freese for rations for 600 men. At forty cents per day per man this would be $240, with which amount the Sixth regiment is credited. Every item issued is debited to the regiment, and a balance is struck. The total for the stay in camp must not exceed the $240 per day, and whatever less it may be is returned to the regimental commissary and by him to each commissary sergeant of each company according to the amount issued. The company that is economical will thus receive a neat sum, while the one that is extravagant will have less.

Col. Freese is allowed 40 cents per day for each man whose names appears on the rolls.

Major Fisher Monday gave an estimate of the amount of rations issued to the entire camp each day.

Fresh beef 4,000 pounds.
Salt meat 1,000 pounds.
Bread 9,000 pounds.
Coffee 480 pounds.
Sugar 500 pounds.
Milk 300 gallons.
Salt 200 pounds.
Pepper 20 pounds.
Butter 500 pounds.
Potatoes 150 bushels.
Rice 200 pounds.
Eggs 1100.

Besides these staples, about a ton of vegetables is issued each day, tomatoes, cabbages or something similar.

COL. ADAMS HERE.

Col. C. B. Adams, formerly assistant adjutant general, who is retired and assigned to special duty at Camp William McKinley, arrived in camp at 10 o'clock. He had just finished mustering the naval reserves of Cleveland, and came to camp after a 24 hours ride on the train from Port Clinton, Col. Adams arrived in camp and started to go to General Dick's headquarters in the grove when challenged by the guard. He was dressed in civilian clothes, and although he told who he was the guard was obdurate, and like the good soldier he is, Col. Adams took the embarrassing situation philosophically and waited until arrangements were made for him to pass the guard line. He was warmly greeted by all the officers at headquarters, and expressed himself as greatly pleased to be in camp once more. He will go to Lancaster and return to camp about Wednesday.

NEW KRAG GUNS.

Major T. E. Bradbury ordinance officer of the Second Brigade and an officer detailed specially for the service, were busy today issuing the new Krag-Jorgensen guns to the various companies entitled to receive them.

There was no division officer of the day, but Lieutenant Colonel Denning, of the Second regiment, First Brigade and Lieutenant Colonel Reamy, Fifth regiment, second brigade, acted as brigade officers of the day and conjointly as division officers of the day yesterday.

NAVAL RECRUITS WANTED.

Merle W. Shumate advance representative of recruiting party No. 6, of the United States navy arrived in camp today and during his stay will endeavor to interest the men in the navy to the extent that he can secure enlistments.

NINTH BATTALION.

One of the officers in speaking to Lieutenant Van Dusen commanding the U. S. Regulars hospital detachment, about the pitching of his camp, suggested that it had better be pitched at a certain distance from the Ninth battalion, of colored troops.

"That makes no difference to us. We do not think of that. We are used to serving with colored troops, and would as soon be next to them as not," replied Van Dusen.

GOVERNOR IN CAMP.

As announced yesterday, Governor George K. Nash arrived in camp about three o'clock Monday being escorted to the grounds from the main line of the Newark & Granville road by a detail of officers. He was received by the Governor's salute fired by one of the batteries. He immediately went to the headquarters of General Charles Dick, and as commander in chief of the division assumed command of all the troops in camp.

The Governor does not appear to be in the best of health and when he arrived at the camp had to be assisted to dismount by aids. He is not complaining, but it can be seen that he is far from a well man, lacking entirely that appearance of health and activity in movements which characterized his appearance while here last year. The Governor was accompanied by his Japanese valet, who will look after his personal comfort while in camp.

THE FIRST

Detail of Four Companies Will Go To Cincinnati Tonight to Attend Col. Bundy's Funeral.

Lieutenant Colonel Charles Hake, now in command of the First regiment since the death of Col. W. E. Bundy, this morning announced that Companies I and A of Cincinnati F of Wilmington, and L of Middleton will be dispatched under command of Major M. Sullivan to attend the obsequies of the late Colonel W. E. Bundy which takes place Wednesday morning. The battalion will be accompanied by the band and will leave Newark at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening on a special train over the B. & O., arriving in Cincinnati about midnight. The battalion will camp in the armory at Cincinnati, and attend the funeral services Wednesday morning, and accompany the remains on the trolley line to Spring Grove cemetery, where it is expected the body will be placed in a receiving vault, the final interment taking place in Wellston, the Colonel's former home.

The battalion will board their special train after dinner and come back to camp, arriving in Newark about 6 o'clock p. m. Wednesday.

The First is badly handicapped at this camp, but is nevertheless doing its work in an entirely creditable manner. The regiment is commanded by a Lieutenant Colonel recently promoted from Major, while Major Proctor resigned to accept a position on General Dick's staff, thus leaving vacancies in the command of two battalions, which are being filled by two captains acting as majors.

The detail for the First regiment is Captain M. A. Schell, Co. B, Cincinnati, officer of the day; Lieutenant C. L. Ferris, Co. G, Cincinnati, officer of the guard.

The detail of the Second regiment Tuesday was Captain Callan, officer of the day; Lieutenant McGann officer of the guard.

SECOND REGIMENT.

The Second was the first to attempt extended order drill which was under command of Col. E. S. Bryant. The regiment acquitted itself in a manner that brought forth words of praise from General McMaken and other officers who witnessed the maneuvers.

VISITORS

To Camp Should Read This Then They Will Be Posted About the Guard Lines.

Visitors to the camp last night ran into a number of circumstances in the shape of sentries who refused them admission to the camp. During the day some regulations were promulgated with regard to visitors and it was ignorance of these regulations and a failure of the guards to make them clear that caused the trouble. Visitors are not to be excluded from the camp, but only from one front of it. The exception part is the territory about Division headquarters. Last year visitors to this small and very busy space became so numerous and inquisitive that the officers on duty there had much difficulty in performing their duties, so this year that part of the camp will be closed to all except those who have real business there. This is a very small part of the camp and all the rest is open to visitors.

Entrance to the camp must be made always at the two regular gateways that have been established. One of these and the principal one, is on the west side of the grove, the place that has heretofore been used as a carriage entrance. Those who wish to go into the octagon where the Second Brigade camps, should proceed north along the railroad track from the point at which the street cars stop. When the embankment of the octagon is reached a turn to the right is made and a few steps to the east bring one to the entrance to the octagon. Those who are entitled to admission to Division headquarters should turn to the left and after a few steps are taken the opportunity to try blandishments and palaver on the sentry will be afforded.

Those who wish to go to the camp of the First Brigade should turn to the west at the point at which the car stops and follow the lane to the south of the power house about 100 yards which brings them to the area where the First Brigade is camped.

As stated yesterday, carriages will not be admitted to any part of the camp. Those who come in carriages should tie their horses in the drive leading west from the road which meets the Granville road at the Cherry Valley school house.

The camp is very quiet and orderly and hard working. Tuesday promises to be uneventful. The regular routine has been taken up and all is moving with clock like regularity.

Details of men may be seen every where "policing" camp. This doesn't mean arresting people, but simply doing what the neat housewife would call "reading up," with rakes and shovels and brooms the men are adding to the neatness of the camp appearance.

Among the officers and men there is more interest, possibly in the Fourth regiment, than in any other. The Fourth used to be a crack organization. Lately, however, it has been anything but a credit to the guard. Now, thoroughly reorganized and under the command of Col. Ammel, a thorough soldier it bids fair to regain its old standing. There is a tremendous amount of hard work to be done, but officers and men show their determination to do it.

Drilling in all the commands has begun in earnest. There were dress parades yesterday and this morning several regiments had battalion drill, company drills, of course are universal and the awkward squad would be at work only that there is none in the Buckeye Guard.

Last evening the camp was enlivened by the music of all the bands in camp and nearly all the regiments in camp were out on dress parade.

Nothing very definite has been decided as yet in regard to Brigade or Division reviews. Gen. Dick says there will probably be a Division review on Friday, though that is not definite. Also on Sunday there will be a Division review. Brigade Commanders McMaken and Sparks are the busiest men in camp and neither one has decided as to review of their commands. The prospect seems to be for Brigade reviews on Thursday and Saturday and Division reviews on Friday and Sunday.

ENGINEERS A BUSY LOT.

The hard working Engineers are out doing some more hard work today. A road is much needed to the north of the First Brigade camp. In going to the north parade ground the troops become greatly congested.

BRIGADE OFFICERS OF DAY.

Major M. C. Cox, of Toledo, of the Sixth regiment, First brigade, and Lieutenant Col. Charles C. Weybrecht of the Eighth regiment, Second brigade, were detailed for brigade officers of the day Tuesday.

Sergeant Ed B. Armbruster of Troop B, Columbus, has been detached for duty at the headquarters of General Sparks.

THE PROVOST GUARD.

Company F, of the Eighth regiment, Akron, in command of Capt. Werner, has been detailed to act as the provost guard in the city during the encampment. This is the same company that rendered such efficient service as the provost guard last year.

WINDER

The Crack Shot Was Given a Rousing Reception When He Got Home From Jersey.

Corporal C. B. Winder, Bloomdale, O., whose picture was in yesterday's Advocate made the highest score in the rifle practice events at Sea Girt, N. J. He was tendered a rousing reception and welcome by the people of his home town on the occasion of his return. Corporal Winder not only hit the mark oftener at Sea Girt than any other contestant for honors, but by his skill as a marksman gained for himself a place in the international rifle contest, to be held in Bisley, England. He is now accredited to be the crack rifleman of the world, and has been christened "The Abe Lincoln of Ohio" by the boys of the Sixth Ohio regiment to which he belongs.

The reception in his honor was held in the Bloomdale armory building. The Sixth regiment band of Tiffin, furnished the music for the occasion, and Ralph D. Cole, of Findlay; Mayor Slomberg of Bloomdale, and other speakers provided the oratory. The streets and armory were handsomely decorated with bunting and American flags. A banquet was served in the armory to the members of the Corporal's company, G, and invited guests.

After justice had been done to the regimental band, and Young America was held.

In the evening red fire was burned and a fine pyrotechnic display heralded the achievements of Winder to Mars, the god of war.

GOVERNOR

Says He is Here for an Outing and Thinks It May Do Him Good—"Kraggs" Distributed.

Governor Nash, whose health is not good, today expressed the hope that a week in camp will do him good, a hope which all will share. He plans to take life very easily this week and while he is willing and anxious that the officers and men shall make the most of the week's training he intends to enjoy an outing.

THE NEW KRAGS.

During the day the new guns, Krag-Jorgensen—"Kraggs" as they are usually called—began to arrive and several commands were equipped with them. Yesterday the Engineers, the Second and Fourth regiments, got theirs. The men do not take them with unmixed joy. The old Springfield has a lot of loyal friends, though all realize that it is a back number. The Krag makes plenty of trouble. It is somewhat complicated and requires much intelligent care. The old Springfield was simply a stock trigger and a barrel, but the Krag is a regular department store of a gun. A new manual is required for the Krag also, which doesn't please all of the men.

The government packs and ships the guns as carefully as if they were watches. They come in pine boxes, grownsome like coffin cases, which are put together with screws. The metal parts are thickly coated with oil to prevent rusting and the guns are packed in snug between cleats.

Practically the entire Ohio Guard is to have the new guns. Only a small fraction which the U. S. inspecting officer did not find up to standard, is not to have them, and the Governor is to ask for a new inspection to give these boys another chance.

THE FIRST NIGHT.

The first night in Camp William McKinley passed very quietly, and the troops, tired with long travel and weary march, were nearly exhausted, so that at 8:30 the great majority of the men were in bed.

Quite a number from the organizations that had arrived early came into town, and spent the evening either in the city or at Idlewild park.

Only three of the regiments the Second, Sixth and Fifth held dress parade Monday afternoon. The other regiments were not prepared to hold this ceremony owing to their late arrival besides the exhausted condition of the men.

FIFTH'S CONCERT.

Harris military band, one of the crack musical organizations of Cleveland, gave the first of a series of concerts before Col. Zimmerman's headquarters Monday night. The band will give a concert here every night this week except Wednesday night when they come down town and play at the lodge room of Newark Lodge of Elks. All the officers of the Fifth regiment have been invited to a social session to be given by the Elks on that evening.

The Fifth's band has a cornet soloist in Mr. Orville Robertson, who is recognized as one of the best in Ohio. His solo Monday night, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," received an enthusiastic encore to which Mr. Robertson cheerfully responded.

Chaplain Paul R. Hickok of the Fifth regiment, did not arrive with the command, but got in from Delaware early Monday evening. Chaplain Hickok was for many years a resident of Cleveland, but is now living at Delaware.

A SURPRISE COMING.

J. J. Sullivan, President of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce is expected in camp Wednesday, and will be the guest of the Fifth regiment. It is understood that Mr. Sullivan has a surprise in store for the members of Col. Zimmerman's crack organization.

TODAY'S DETAIL.

The detail for Tuesday in the Fifth regiment is Captain W. M. Mountcastle, Co. F, Cleveland, officer of the day, Lieutenant F. H. Waldeck Co. D, Warren, senior officer of the guard, Lieutenant Harry Buft Co. E, Geneva, junior officer of the guard.

THE ENGINEERS.

The detail for Tuesday in the engineers battalion is Captain F. M. Fanning, Co. C, officer of the guard.

The engineers had battalion and company drill Monday morning and in the afternoon had another battalion drill under Major McQuigg, ending with parade in the evening.

BASEBALL CHALLENGE.

The baseball team of the engineers has issued a challenge to any military club in the division for a game of baseball. The battalion has a fine team which plays both indoor and out door baseball.

Kirk's military band gave a very enjoyable concert in front of Major McQuigg's headquarters Monday night.

EIGHTH REGIMENT.

The detail for the Eighth regiment for Tuesday is as follows Captain Willis Bacon, Co. I, Tiffin, officer of the day, Lieutenant James D. Wise, Co. A, Bucyrus, senior officer of the guard, Lieutenant Charles Hoover Co. A, Alliance, junior officer of the guard.

SEVENTH INFANTRY.

The detail in the Seventh is, Captain W. E. Thompson Co. I, Ironton, officer of the day; Lieutenant True, Co. D, Lower Salem, senior, and Lieutenant Henderson Co. G, Blanchester, junior officer of the guard.

TROUBLE WITH HORSES.

Battery A of Cleveland has been having a great deal of trouble with their new horses which for the most part are young and were full of life, and spirit. A great deal of this has been taken out of them by Monday's hard work and they were more tractable on Tuesday which resulted in a much better drill than on the day previous.

RECOVERS FROM HURT.

Private Gephardt who was struck on the head by the hoof of one of the fractious horses of battery A, has recovered and reported for duty.

REAL WORK BEGINS.

With the arrival of the last troops Monday the real work and routine of Camp William McKinley began. Last night guard lines were established around and through the camp, and only those who were authorized might move about with perfect freedom. Yesterday morning saw much the larger part of the men in camp. The First regiment came very early, after them at nearly noon, the Fourth, and close together, late in the afternoon the Seventh and Eighth made camp. At noon the Ninth Battalion came in. During the day Troop A of Cleveland and Battery H of Columbus. This completed the roster and the number of officers and men then in camp was well on to 6000.

Though there was no doubt that beginning early Monday morning Camp Wm. McKinley was a real military camp, yet the arrival of troops during the day, their march to the localities of their camps, and their settlement, were bound to produce some confusion and the routine and discipline could not be perfect. Beginning last night however, the lines were strictly drawn and from now on to the end there will be no let up.

A LIVELY DAY.

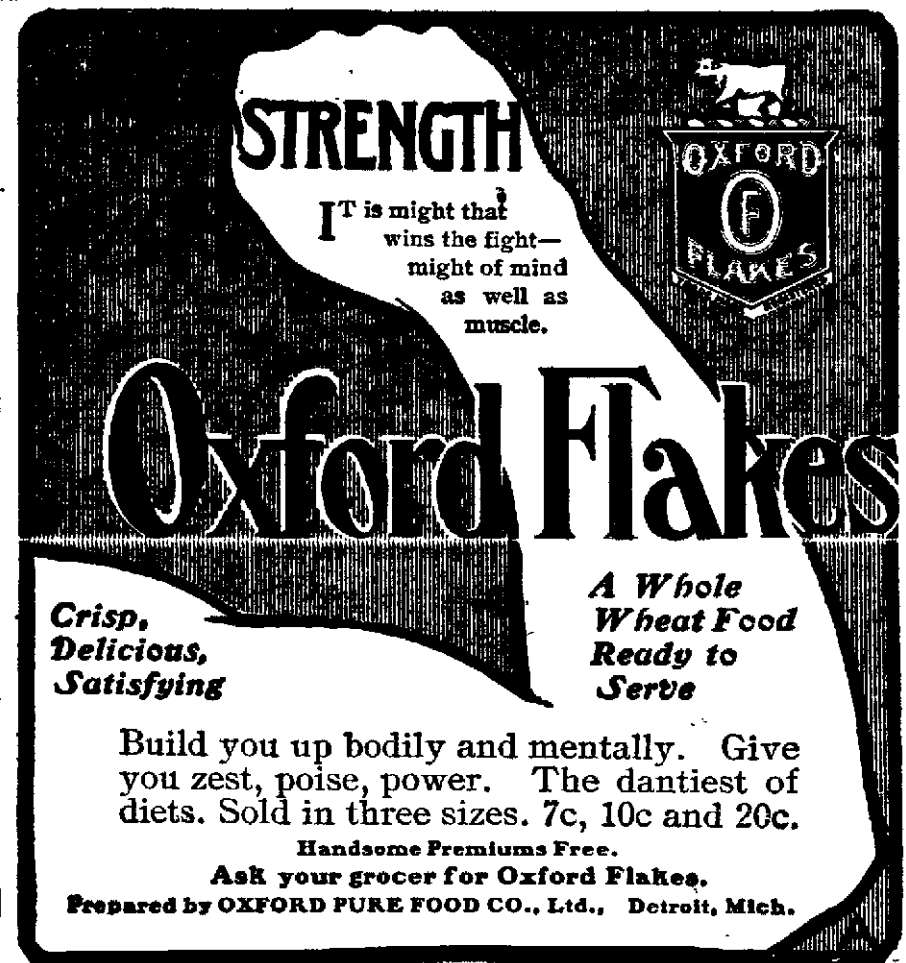

The day was a lively one. The arrival of the belated troops, with bands playing and colors flying brought many people a-running and the late comers marched in between lines of sympathetic spectators. Col. Ammel, the new Colonel of the rejuvenated Fourth, got a head when he was seen on foot at the head of his men.

Though the weather was perfect the march from Showman's was anything but a pleasure. The traffic over the pike has been very heavy lately, and the dust is thick. As the men came plodding in the night all get the credit of being clothed in khaki, though many were in the famous old blue, for the dust covered them from crown to heels. On their hats and shoulders it is no exaggeration to say it was more than an eighth of an inch thick.

All troops come into camp now at the same place. They march to the Cherry Valley school house, turn north, then east and come into the grounds just west of division headquarters. The embankment was covered with spectators, soldier and civilian, and much good natured talk was indulged in, back and forth, between spectators and new arrivals. It was inspiring to notice, however, that when the colors came every man in uniform, and many in civilian dress, straightened up to attention and reverently laid his cap or hat over his heart as the stars and stripes went past.

THE BALKAN TROUBLES.

The Bulgarian government has issued, and guarantees the truth of its contents, a memorandum of conditions in the Turkish villages far from its frontier that constitutes an indictment against the sultan for an almost incredible series of crimes. Murder, cruelty in every form, desecration of churches and suppression of priests, imprisonment of 2,500 people on flimsy pretexts, rapine and looting indiscriminate, are specified with painful minuteness. It refutes completely the charge of the sultan that Bulgarians incited the spreading insurrection, a charge that Anglomaniac papers in this country appear prone to believe. No longer is it the Macedonian committee, but Bulgaria, that acts. Russia and Austria can settle this awful carnival of fanatical crime. No protectorate like that which causes so much agitation in Crete will suffice, for turbulence there is constant. If Great Britain and Germany remain supine and the Bismarckian saying that the Balkan troubles are not worth a Pomoranian grenadier, be accepted, the Powers near can arrange the territorial affair. But distributing land would probably waken England to a sudden anxiety over Bulgarian Christians, or rather to a defense of the Musselmans.

POPE PIUS

Distributes Twenty Thousand Dollars
Among the Needy—His Health is Fully Restored.

Rome, Aug. 18.—The pope has given $20,000 for distribution among the poor of Rome.

The pontiff seems to have quite recovered his health, and he is giving more audiences than before he suffered from his recent fainting fit, although the heat is still suffocating.

The Pope yesterday received Prince Orsini, assistant at the papal throne. The Pope greeted him with saying he would be glad if the prince would retain his office, which he had resigned before the death of Leo XIII., and expressed the hope that he would not again resign it.

In reply the prince gave the Pope to understand that his resignation had nothing to do with the duties of his office, but was tendered on account of his dissatisfaction with the conduct of certain matters under the late Pope.

PANAMA TREATY

Fails to Enlist Support of Colombians—Not one Senator Voted in the Affirmative—Great Excitement Prevails on Isthmus in Consequence.

Panama, Aug. 18.—The news from Bogota is that Colombian senate has voted unanimously to reject the pending treaty with the United States under which the North American Republic proposed to build the Panama Canal. The action of the senate was taken last Wednesday, but owing to the unsettled state of affairs the report of it was low in coming.

The news from Bogota has caused intense excitement here that borders at times on panic, since the people of Panama will be the greatest sufferers, and will lose heavily in consequence of the senate's action.

The rejection in the first place is nearly a fatal blow to the property owners in Panama, since they have been investing heavily with the end in view of realizing handsomely in the event that the treaty was ratified. Nearly everyone here, until today, was confident that the two republics would come to terms, but the news that the Colombia Senators were unanimous in their refusal to ratify the treaty has blighted the hopes of business men and investors alike. The one consolation of the isthmians is that other parts of the republic will have to bear a part of the burden that the rejection of the treaty places on Colombia, es- figure, with a tendency to go still higher.

Not a few of the isthmians are again talking of secession from the republic, the establishment of a new state and an altogether new deal with the Anglo-Saxon government of the North. That he authorities fear the secession movement is evidenced by the fact that General Lucia Valazco, an old soldier and a distinguished army officer, has just been appointed military commander of the Department of Panama. It is generally understood that the rumor of secession was the motive of his appointment.

There is good reason to suppose that the majority of the members of the senate regard the Spooner amendment to build a canal by the Nicaraguan route if the Panama route was rejected by Colombia as a mere threat on the part of the United States. They are convinced that the Nicaraguan project is impossible and that the United States will again deal with Colombia.

High authorities on the isthmus express the opinion that President Roosevelt possibly may insist on the right of the United States to purchase the canal enterprise from the French company, Colombia already having sanctioned the sale, and then take immediate steps to show Colombia that the United States is determined to go through with the matter.

It is reported that President Marroquin has been authorized by congress to make a new treaty which will not require further ratification, but that the basis given for the treaty will probably not prove unacceptable to the United States. It is considered, however, that the authorization will furnish a basis for reopening negotiations with the United States.

NOT SURPRISED

Was President Roosevelt by the News From Bogota.

New York, Aug. 18.—A dispatch from Oyster Bay to the Herald is as follows:

"President Roosevelt heard of the adverse action of the Colombian congress on the Panama canal treaty with disappointment, but not with surprise.

The President is not prepared to say what step will be taken next. For the present, at least, the United States seems to be through with Colombia and Panama. It is not the desire of the president that the matter shall be dropped or even be allowed to rest. It is probable that the question will be presented to congress in extra session. If the undertaking was not such a stupendous one it is likely that the President might be willing to act at once and take steps to negotiate treaties with Nicaragua and Costa Rica. It can even be said that events seem to be rapidly tending in the direction of Nicaragua.

While the President has technically full authority to go ahead with the Nicaragua canal there are important elements in Congress which must be consulted. If as much were known about the work on the Panama route, and if this information was satisfactory, the President's way would be easier. But he hesitates in view of the declaration that no human being can fortell the difficulties when we begin the work of creating new ports at either end of the canal and digging along and controlling the San Juan river. The President's hesitation would seem to indicate that the Isthmian canal commission, which spent more than a million in surveys and made its first report so strongly in favor of Panama, was not really sure of its recommendations, and made them largely for the purpose of bringing the Panama Canal Company to terms. The canal question will undoubtedly figure largely in the discussion in Congress this fall and winter.

POWERS

ON THE STAND TELLS STORY ABOUT TROOPS.

Youtsey Killed Goebel is the Claim Defense Will Set Up—Some Damaging Testimony.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 18.—Robert Nokes, who three years ago in the trial of Caleb Powers was a sensational witness, but who ran away from Kentucky after leaving the stand, appeared as a witness for the commonwealth yesterday. He has been in Indiana and Illinois since he left the state. He was called and interrogated by the attorney for the commonwealth. Witness Nokes said that at one time, at Corbin, Whitley county, Charles Finley, ex-secretary of state, said to him that the moving of large bodies of men to Frankfort was too expensive and that the best way to settle the contest was to pay James Howard $1200 to kill Goebel. The witness said that arrangements had been made to kill Goebel on January 25, 1900, but they then miscarried.

Powers took the witness stand in his own defense at the afternoon session of court.

Examined by Jere Morton, he told the story he has repeated on the stand at each of his preceding trials, but inserted new matter by entering a denial to the story told by F. C. Cecil that he was seeking some one to act in the role of assassin. Powers denied that he had any motive in bringing the mountain army to Frankfort other than to show the Democratic majority of the general assembly the intense feeling of the Republican voters of the state, and said it had nothing whatever to do with the Goebel murder.

It is evident that Powers' defense will be that Frank Youtsey shot and killed William Goebel.

Powers will be on the stand all day tomorrow and probably longer. Attorney Campbell will attend to the cross examination.

The state witness, Robert Nokes who occupied the morning session was released immediately on the opening of the afternoon session of court, but is to be recalled today by the defense.

FAITHFUL

Horse Picked His Way While the Driver Sat Rigid in Phaeton—Man Was Paralyzed.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 18.—Suffering from a stroke of paralysis, which came upon him while he was driving in a light phaeton, C. P. Staub, a retired liverman living at 1223 Windsor st., had a terrible experience yesterday. The good sense of his faithful old horse, which seemed to realize his master's condition, probably saved him from being crushed in the down town streets. Partially conscious, yet unable to call or beckon for help, Staub sat rigid in the seat, one hand tightly grasping the reins. He had headed for the heart of the business section when the stroke fell upon him. The horse, unchecked, kept on his way, but as if guided by some instinct it dodged in and out between the trucks, express wagons and street cars, and made for the big viaduct over the railroad tracks at Virginia avenue. At the top of the viaduct the horse stopped, as if expecting some word from the driver, but Staub was helpless. The horse then turned slowly and began retracing its steps. People who had seen the rig stop at the top of the viaduct and the horse's strange actions looked closely at Staub, but he was sitting straight up, holding the reins, so they passed on.

After dodging through another mass of wagons and cars the horse drew up in front of Germania hall, where a number of men, who had been watching his movements, investigated and soon learned Staub's condition. The reins were taken from the stricken hands and the rig was driven to the City Dispensary, where Staub received attention. In a short time he recovered sufficiently to be taken home, but he is in a serious condition.

ANECDOTES OF MILES.

Although it is generally understood that the sense of humor of General Miles, who has just been retired from the United States army, is not sufficiently developed even to enable him to hold a position on Punch, a story is told of him which would indicate that under provocation he can indulge in a sportive practical joke, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune. "The incident," said an army man, "is accepted by some of us as an explanation of some of the friction between General Miles and his colleagues which years of association have developed."

"A number of years ago Miles, who is a big man physically, and another well known general, clean shaven and of small stature, were detailed to report to a western garrison. As the incident which I am about to relate has never been forgiven by the small general, who still bristles at suggestion of the indignity he suffered, I shall omit his name.

"To this companion of Miles was assigned the duty of arranging for berths on the Pullman car. The two generals then were friends, but each took pleasure in getting the better of the other, all with apparent good nature. Whether there was conscious or unconscious jealousy at the bottom of their amiable conflicts I do not know.

"On this western trip the small general selected the only two available berths the lower for himself. When Miles found that he had to climb to the top bunk he protested, saying that inasmuch as he was by far the bigger of the two he should have had the lower berth. But the other general was inflexible, and Miles had to climb laboriously into the uncomfortable port.

"Down below the triumphant general chuckled, while the notes from the upper berth, where Miles was trying to adjust himself for the night's sleep, could by no means have been mistaken for a resper service.

"By midnight the Pullman's diapason of snores indicated peace. Suddenly an uproar disturbed the sleepers. The trouble was between a very insistent woman who had boarded the train at a town in western Pennsylvania and the porter.

"General Miles pushed aside the curtains. 'Madam,' he roared, 'what in heaven's name is the matter?'

"'Matter!' she repeated. 'I arranged by telegraph for a berth in this car, and the porter tells me that two army men have got accommodations and that I must sit up.'

"'That's all right, madam,' replied Miles. 'I can arrange matters for you. My little boy is occupying the berth under me, and you can turn in with him.'

He entered the rapids at the cantilever bridge from which he was to have jumped on Sunday, but was stopped by the police, and was taken out of the water 20 minutes later half dead at Devil Hole, at the end of the rapids by Captain Peter C. Donnellan of the life saving crew and a number of Italian workmen who were on their way to work on a railroad.

Naples, Aug. 18.—Vesuvius continues active and the eruption has now lasted two weeks. On nights when there is no moonlight the spectacle is magnificent, the crater belching flames and smoke to the height of nearly 4,000 feet. In spite of the legend that Naples will be destroyed by Vesuvius the Neapolitans firmly believe that their patron saint, San Genaro, will stop the flow of lava with a gesture, should it advance too near Naples. The stream of lava, after flowing 2,650 feet in the direction of Ottolano, has stopped, while the other stream is still moving and has reached a joint 2,550 feet toward Pompeii.

AUTHOR'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Alfred Henry Lewis' During Leap Into Door of Speeding Train.

The famous author of "Peggy O'Neil," Alfred Henry Lewis, recently returned to New York from a visit to his Philadelphia publisher, Mr. A. J. Drexel Biddle. During his sojourn in Philadelphia Mr. Lewis was feted at various of the prominent clubs and was interviewed wherever he went. The most notable occasion of Mr. Lewis' visit was a large dinner in his honor by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Drexel Biddle at their country home at Villanova, says the Philadelphia Press.

It was at the conclusion of his visit that Mr. Lewis had a miraculous escape from death. He and his publisher had a narrow margin of time in which to make the train at Villanova station for Philadelphia. As they approached the station the train was already there and about to move off. Mr. Lewis boarded the train while Mr. Biddle hurriedly arranged for the checking of his trunk to New York. Biddle stepped on the train from the opposite side as it started, and Lewis, not having seen Biddle get aboard, jumped off the train, which was now going at a pretty fair speed.

Biddle then discovered Lewis standing on the platform, whereupon he sprang from the car, but Lewis had already another thought in his mind. The train was going at a great rate of speed as Biddle jumped from it to find that Lewis had started on a mad rush for the baggage car. With a tremendous leap Lewis shot some four feet into the air and landed half way in to the opening through which the baggage is received.

The publisher, expecting to see his friend dashed to pieces, tore along to save him, but Lewis meanwhile drew himself into the car with the greatest ease, looking around to see if Biddle followed. The conductor said that Lewis had run nine chances out of ten of falling under the train and being instantly killed. As the last car shot by, Biddle made a great leap for the rear platform and clambered aboard.

Lewis was as cool as a circus athlete after one of his daily feats, and a crowd of passengers who recognized the famous author gathered around him admiringly.

BOY SHOT HIMSELF.

Five Year Old Visitor Played With a Pistol Tuesday Morning and Bullet Penetrated His Abdomen—He May Die.

Vincenz Conizio, aged five years, accidentally shot and probably fatally wounded himself with a 32 calibre revolver at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, at the home of George Ray at 29 South Fifth street.

Vincenz, whose home is at Canal Dover, together with his mother and seven year old brother, were visiting Mrs. Coniglio's sister-in-law, Mrs. Geo. Ray, and had only arrived in Newark Monday evening. Mr. Ray is the owner of the Italian fruit and candy store on the west side of the square.

While Mrs. Coniglio was washing some clothes this morning, the child found a revolver in a cupboard and began playing with it. In some unknown manner the revolver was discharged, the bullet striking the boy near the center of the abdomen and passing through the right of the spinal column. No one witnessed the accident, the mother and others being attracted by the report of the revolver and by the boy's screams.

Dr. D. M. Smith was summoned and he placed the boy under the influence of chloroform and dressed the wounds as well as possible.

Several families live in the house in which the accident occurred. It is not believed the boy can live. He is of Italian parentage, but was born in this country. The father is engaged in the wholesale fruit business at Canal Dover, but was in Columbus at the time of the accident.

DAY OF CAMP M'KINLEY.

Engineers, a number of men who have served in the regular cavalry and they are interested to "bust" the animals so that anyone could ride them and they did. The circle was quite free of tents and the "busters" had plenty of room and the spectators unobstructed vision. The sight was worth seeing. The "busters" knew their business and the animals were tamed even too quickly to please the riders. Not that it wasn't a job for men, but the men were altogether too good for the horses. No one used a saddle and though the horses kicked and jumped and plunged and bucked, it was no use. They were brought to time. One horse run a quarter of a mile like a streak, but his rider soon had him down. One big sorrel seemed to be after the high jumping record. He jumped again and again. "Well, here's luck to you," said the General.

"But where is my halter?"

"How do I know? Who got it?"

"The feller that's got my horse."

"Good, but there's 6,000 fellers here."

"No."

"Where did he get the horse?"

"Out where I live, six miles west of Granville."

"What did you let him have it for?"

"He had to have it to lead the horse."

"Well if you think your halter is here you just hunt 'round for it. Look's to me though as if your halter was about a 6000 to 1 shot."

The colored man hasn't come in to report finding the halter. The General expecting very hard that he will.

MYSTERY

ONLY PARTLY SOLVED WHEN THE DEAD BODY

Of One of the Lovers Who Went Rowing Was Discovered—Evans' Body is Found.

Gloversville, N. Y., Aug. 18—The body of George H. Evans of Johnstown N. Y., who mysteriously disappeared with Miss Florence Brown of New York City a week ago, while rowing on Canada Lake in the Adirondacks, was found yesterday floating on the surface of the lake.

The shadow of self-destruction rests over the tragedy, for the reason that on the day the couple went for their last boat ride, Evan's fiancée, Miss Edith Werth of Pittsburg, arrived at Canada lake.

That day Miss Brown sent a letter to a friend in this city, telling of her love for Evans.

Young Evans and Miss Brown had never seen each other until they met at Canada lake. With them it was love at first sight. The girl worked in a store here.

The mother of the young man talked with her son and counselled him to remember that he was engaged to marry another girl and that the girl was coming there in a few days.

Perhaps the young man chose suicide to breaking his word with another perhaps the young woman preferred death with Evans rather than life without him.

It was hoped and thought that they had eloped and this belief was strengthened with the report came that they had been seen in Newark after their disappearance from the Adirondacks.

Friends of the lovers confidently expected that young Evans would turn up today, when he would have attained his majority, and sign papers which would transfer from a guardian to himself a fortune of $100,000.

But the story of a vacation was destined to end otherwise.

MILES AND THE PRESIDENCY

A Story of the General's Ambition Recalled by His Retirement.

Apocryph of the retirement of General Nelson A. Miles from the command of the United States army, an interview is recalled which occurred some years ago, in which the general told a story to illustrate his attitude on the question of being a candidate for the presidency. He was then stationed on a western frontier, and was approached by the representative of an eastern paper, who said:

"They say in the east that you are aiming for the presidency."

"Do they?" the general replied.

"Well, we won't take much time for an interview on that subject. The thing reminds me of an experience that a scout had in the old days when we were fighting the Cheyennes in 1875. That scout was a clubfooted Frenchman, a plucky, good fellow too, he had to make his way from Fort Keogh to a cantonment on the Missouri, and the Cheyennes were after him. They pushed him like Satan, and after a time his horse gave out, and he had to hoof it. Well, it was a rough, bad country, and his poor clubfoot slipped and stumbled and slid so that his trail must have been something awful to contemplate. An Indian can read marks in the ground as well as you and I can read a book, but they had never dogged a clubfoot before. He got into the cantonment all right, and pretty soon the Cheyennes came along. They pointed to the trail and asked our people to look at them. 'We can't make out which way that fellow was going,' said they. Now, that's the case with these people who busy themselves about me. They don't know anything about me, and they can't find out."

After a pause General Miles turned his head and spoke a few words over his shoulder. "My only ambition is to command brave men," said he, "and I've been doing that for thirty years."

"SKITZIE"
WEARY OF WANDERING GOES BACK TO PEN.
Wobbled Into the Guard Room and Asked to be Returned to His Prison Cell.

A message from Columbus tells of the return of "Skitzie" Miller to the penitentiary as follows:
Bowed with the weight of a jag and worn with the exertions of his two days of wrestling with the demon rum, "Skitzie" Miller, escaped convict and murderer Monday night at 9 o'clock wobbled wearily into the guard room of the Ohio penitentiary and in woody accents asked to be shown to his old room.
"Skitzie", while watering the lawn in front of the prison last Saturday afternoon, was seized with an uncontrollable desire to be free. Throwing down the hose he went up town, secured some less pronounced clothing than that he had been wearing and started out to break a few of the Ten Commandments. He was a "trusty" and Warden Hershey felt that he would come back, but when Sunday passed and he did not return an alarm was sent out and a reward hung up. With him tonight when he staggered into his old quarters was a "gemlen fren," who was really responsible for his return. This person keeps a saloon near Hebron, O., and when the soaked "Skitzie" came into his place, seeking more "suds" he advised him to return to the prison. After taking a few more drinks the convict decided that this was good advice and the pair took a trolley car to this city. At the gate the convict bade his friend an alcoholic good bye and tottered along the corridor to his cell, asking the guard, "I'll get mine in the morning, yes?"
Miller was sent up some years ago for the murder of his sweetheart, a fallen woman named Rooney, in this city. He was given 15 years' sentence, and will likely forfeit his good time by his escapade.

FRANK D. HALL'S SUCCESS.
Great Popularity of Plan to Sell Medicine at Half-Price and Guarantee a Cure.
Frank D. Hall the enterprising druggist, rather than await the ordinary methods of introduction, urged the Dr. Howard Co. to secure a quick sale of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia by offering the regular 50c bottle at half-price.
So much talk has been caused by this offer, and so many new friends have been made for the specific, that Dr. Howard Co. have authorized druggist Hall to continue this special half-price sale for a limited time longer.
In addition to selling a 50c bottle of Dr. Howard's specific for 25c, Mr. Hall has so much faith in the remedy that he will refund the money to anyone whom it does not cure.
When your head aches, your stomach does not digest food easily and naturally when there is constipation, specks before the eyes, tired feeling, giddiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, heartburn, sour stomach, roaring or ringing in the ears, melancholy, and liver troubles, Dr. Howard's specific will cure you. If it does not, it will not cost you a cent.
This latest achievement of science is of great value in curing sick headache. Thousands of women are today free from that painful disease solely through the use of this specific.

PARIS SUBWAY HORROR
STORY BY EYEWITNESS

Chedal, chief guard of train No. 48, which was enveloped at the Charonnes station by smoke caused by the burning of train No. 43, made the following statement about the recent accident in the Paris Metropolitan Underground railway, says the New York Herald:
"My train was packed. It contained at least 350 passengers. We had picked up at the Barbès station the passengers who had been made to get out of train No. 43, in which the carriage containing the motor caught fire. At Charonnes station we were stopped by signals. As the waiting became tedious, some passengers jocosely shouted out, 'Tout le monde descend!' These words had been used by the railway servants in telling them to get out of train No. 43 at the Barbès station.
"A few passengers got angry over the delay, but the majority regarded it as a laughing matter and cracked jokes about it. Suddenly I noticed dense smoke coming from the direction of Menilmontant. Realizing the danger, I shouted to the passengers to get out of the train, at the same time running to the telephone to request the Belleville station to cut off the electric current. But the telephone was not in working order.
"I called an employee named Latige and asked him to run to the Belleville station via the boulevard. He started off immediately. Meantime the guards were begging the passengers to get out of the train, but the passengers refused. 'We were made to get out at the Barbès station,' they said, 'and we have had enough of it.' All this time the smoke was steadily approaching, becoming denser and denser. It was like a wall advancing. Seeing the smoke enveloping us, I finally took by the arms some passengers who were standing at the carriage door, shouting to them, 'Do get out!'
"These passengers then surrounded me and demanded that the cost of their tickets be refunded. I replied: 'The money will be refunded later on. Run away!' But they would not heed me. They used threats and I received several blows. A crowd gathered around me and prevented the passengers who had been in the train and carriages from reaching the exit staircase up which most of the other passengers had made their escape.
"Then the electric light suddenly went out. A fearful crush followed in the darkness. Screaming shrieks resounded during a few seconds, but the suffocating smoke speedily silenced every voice. I tried to light some wax matches, but the fumes of the smoke extinguished them instantaneously. Then I groped my way along to the wall. I knew that the exit is at the left extremity of the platform, so I advanced in that direction, keeping against the wall. As I was groping along I touched somebody whose arms were beating like windmills. I caught hold of an arm and dragged this person along with me.
"When we reached the exit staircase I felt that the person I was dragging was about to faint. I was half suffocated myself and my head was whirling. I made a supreme effort to get up a few steps. On reaching the upper floor of the station I felt with the person, a woman, whom I had dragged along in the darkness. Fortunately help was soon at hand. Rescuers picked us up and conveyed us to a chemist's shop."
M. Alfred Martin, correspondent of the Gazette de Charleroi, who with his wife was in one of the trains burned, gives his impressions of the disaster as follows:
"My wife and I took the Metropolitan at the Place Clichy about 7 o'clock. We intended to go to the Bastille in order to take a train for Chennéviers at the Gare de Vincennes. When we arrived at the Boulevard Barbès we were told to alight, as the floor of the carriage containing the motor had caught fire. The flames were extinguished with hand grenades. Then the train started slowly on its way to the work shops at the Place de la Nation.
"We, with other passengers, were crowded into the following train and started off again, but when we had arrived between the Rue d'Allemagne and the Belleville stations we had another stoppage. The first train had pulled up in front of us and obstructed the line. We had to get out once more, as it had been decided to push the first train along with the assistance of the second. Then a third train came up, and we got in, following the others.
"At the Charonnes station there was another stop. Some passengers began to complain and others laughed and joked, but no one was conscious of danger. The station master was about to give the order to proceed when two officials excitedly shouted 'Sauve qui peut!' There was at once a great amount of pushing and elbowing, but no one seemed panic stricken. The idea rather prevailed that some one was 'taking' the majority of the passengers, however, my wife and I included, made our way toward the staircase. There were cries of 'My three cents! My three cents!'
"We found it impossible to get up the stairs, which were crowded with people who intended to take the train and who refused to listen to us. When we spoke of an accident they laughed at our remarks. Soon there was a crowd at the bottom of the staircase. No one could budge one way or the other. There was much rushing.
"As I saw smoke coming from the tunnel at the other end I thought I was lost, but an idea came to me. I said to my wife, 'Let us go back through the tunnel to Belleville.' She agreed, and we got down on the line. We were followed by other people. We had scarcely got into the tunnel when the lights went out, leaving inky darkness. We shouted to an employee to come along with a red lantern. He took the lead and we started on our way. A thick volume of smoke came from behind, accompanied by a nasty smell of something like ammonia.
"I thought I heard one or two people fall behind me. I heard women shriek, but could not stop to see what it was about as I had all the trouble in the world to keep up myself and assist my wife. At last we arrived at the Belleville station, where we found a crowd. The staircase there was blocked also and people were calling out for the return of their fares. We begged them to let us pass, but they would not listen. They did not appear to conceive the danger. I was determined to get out, so I advanced, using my fists while doing so. I succeeded in mounting the stairs with my wife. When we got into the open air at last we took a long breath, for both of us had been almost suffocated."

It is enough to say that I suffered, was nearly helpless and could get nothing to help until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Crayton's drug store. I was much surprised at the quickness of the relief they gave and I have told lots of other people about them.

GIANT CLOCK MAKING.
Novel Timepiece Being Built For the St. Louis World's Fair.
A dispatch to the Chicago Tribune from Milwaukee, Wis., says: "The greatest clock in the world, the dial of which will be 120 feet in diameter, is being built at Milwaukee for use at the Louisiana Purchase exposition next year.
"Only the bands and machinery are being made here (Milwaukee), for the dial is to be a brilliant bed of flowers. The clock will be placed on the side of the hill north of the agricultural building. The minute hand will be sixty feet long, and the ring at the end, which will be fastened to the machinery, will be eight feet in diameter. The minute hand will move five feet every minute. The numerals marking the various hours will be fifteen feet in length and made of bright colored coils.
"In a broad circle surrounding the dial will be twelve flower beds, one opposite each hour and each two feet wide and fifteen feet long. At night the timepiece will be illuminated with 2,000 incandescent lights."

NEW RAIN PRODUCER
Australia Sends Up a Column of Gas From Three Centers.
The latest Australian newspapers contain particulars of some experiments which are said to have been more or less successful of a novel method of producing a downfall of rain. The inventor makes this statement:
"I claim to produce rain by sending up continuously from three centers a column of gas made of certain chemicals. The gas, if sent up for a maximum of thirty-two hours, will produce rain over a range of ninety miles at any altitude, with any sky and with the wind from any quarter. I do not need to wait until the wind is from the usually rainy quarter. In one experiment I made the barometric conditions were quite unfavorable, yet I produced rain. The gas, you see, causes a vacuum. This vacuum is the center of a heat storm and is filled by dense clouds that contain rain. These clouds come down with the gravity of the earth, when the rain descends.
"The rain is different from ordinary rain found in districts in which experiments have been made. It is a tropical rain, coming from the very lofty regions, being slight at first and then later descending in heavy showers and bucketfuls. My operations have been conducted in an inclosure 12 feet by 8 feet. Though I cannot, of course, give away my secret, I may tell you that the chemicals have to be changed in accordance with the conditions."

AMUSEMENTS.

THE CIRCUS COMING.

The "Marion Zouaves" is a name to the foremost military company to be found anywhere. They are living and extraordinary exemplars of the complex intricate military science and art.

Recently a New York writer sent broadcast over this country an article whose purpose was to prove that there was no such thing as patriotism. Had he ever witnessed a performance by the Marion Zouaves that article would never have been written. There is a something in their rapid drill and maneuvers that stirs the emotion, the grace and skill with which they melt from one figure to another without a break of any kind appeals in an emphatic way to every individual, the eloquence of their work speaks louder than the subtle lips of the orator, and as a result the human breast is swayed tenderly but positively by something which is generally considered related to patriotism.

There have been other companies of Zouaves, but it is no exaggeration to say that Mr. Wallace has secured the best. Hailing from Indiana, the Wallace show will this year be twice a credit to that state since the famous Marion Zouaves also comprises a score of Indiana's ambitious young men who have by much sacrifice reached the very apex of military tactics. Their work is simply indescribable. They unite the elasticity and agility of youth with the precision and skill of the veteran. It is a most happy combination of faculties necessary for the phenomenal work they do.

The Marion Zouaves are the most remarkable living exponents of military genius and tactics, and like a score of other features to be seen with the Wallace circus, it alone is worth the price of admission, and worth going miles to see. The Marion Zouaves may be seen with the Great Wallace Show at Newark, on Thursday, August 20.

THE DAIRY FARM.

The Dairy Farm, which will be played at the Auditorium next Saturday evening is one of those charming plays which never fail to please an audience. What the Columbus Dispatch says of it:

"Standing room was sold at the Empire theatre for 'The Dairy Farm,' Thursday matinee. It was one of the largest houses seen at that house since stock work was introduced. There are pictures in The Dairy Farm that hold the popular eye and sounds to catch the popular ear. The greatest of enthusiasm greeted performances Thursday, and the work was much superior to the early productions."

GONE

To Join His Cousin Brown in Honduras—Defaulting Cashiers Said to be Related.

Washington C. H., Aug. 18.—The directors and stockholders of the Union bank of New Holland have determined to try to bring defaulting Cashier John K. Brown to justice. They will meet this afternoon to raise a fund for the capture of the wrecker of the bank. It is the general opinion that Brown has gone to Honduras to join defaulting Cashier Brown, of Newport, Ky. It is said that John Brown and Frank Brown are first cousins.

It is understood that Lou Brown, John Brown's brother, a traveling salesman of Cincinnati, has agreed that he, his mother and brothers will make good the shortage to the amount of $15,000, but that they will not go beyond this amount.

Scores of depositors are heart broken. They are liable to lose about all their hard earned money. It is now believed that the depositors will do well if they get 25 cents on the dollar of their deposits, and it may be months before they get that.

It develops that Cashier Brown was quite a sport and that he spent much time playing poker. He was a heavy loser, especially when he was under the influence of liquor. An effort will be made today to induce the depositors when they meet to agree that the bank be opened at once, and for all to get as much out of the bad condition as possible. It has been stated that no charges will be made for the setting up of the bank's business, and if the depositors will agree to hold off the bank will reopen for business at once. It is more than probable that a great deal of litigation will grow out of the muddled condition of the bank.

THE SUMMER GIRL.

People rave over the summer girl. This is because the summer girl is the healthiest and therefore the most magnetic of all girls. Air, sunshine and exercise have quickened and clarified her blood and her whole organism is alive with energy.

Energy—animation—makes people charming, and this may be traced to pure blood and those factors so essential to its production—air, sunshine, exercise, and not less important, wholesome food—food that does not burden but facilitates the digestive processes—food that includes all those elements for perfect bodily development. Such a food is Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit. The people who have eaten Shredded Wheat—and they number thousands—are eloquent in their praises of its excellence.

"Shredded Wheat Biscuit contains a food property which acts on every part of the body. It can be prepared quickly in many tempting ways."

MONEY

Was Under Pillow but Wad Got Out of Bed and Under the Carpet of the Room.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 18.—Captain Thomas Phelps, aide-de-camp to the Department G. A. R. Commander of Ohio, had an experience with his roll of $920 in greenbacks that he will tell around the "campfires" in the future.

Captain Phelps hails from Salem, O. He is en route to the San Francisco reunion and put up last night in a local hotel. Before retiring he placed his roll of bills under his pillow and was soon in dreamland.

Yesterday the Ohioan was awakened by a noise in his room. He felt under his pillow and his hand touched what appeared to be his roll, and then he resumed his slumber. When Captain Phelps arose he again ran his hand under his pillow and found that the roll had mysteriously disappeared. He was greatly exercised and fled himself to the police station. Two detectives returned with him to the hotel and an investigation was made. Absolutely no clew could be found. The search was on the point of being abandoned when one detective noticed a high place in the carpet. He at once pulled out the tacks and there was the roll, just $920, the full amount.

Captain Phelps was mystified and so were the detectives. Finally the detectives decided that a gust of wind had blown the money under the carpet but who pulled out the tacks and again drove them in puzzled them. As for the girl who cleaned the room she was not arrested. She said she believed that the Captain put it there in his sleep.

A VIEW OF WALL STREET

Financial Mart Like an Insane Asylum, Says Mrs. Sage.

WANTS HER HUSBAND TO QUIT.

Wife of Noted Financier Gives Her Impressions of New York Stock Exchange—Says Money to Her is Only a Means to an End—Believes Wives Should Have a Regular Allowance.

"If all that one hears about Wall street is true it seems to me that it is more like an insane asylum than a place where men congregate to carry on business in a peaceful, law-abiding manner. Some years ago curiosity led me to visit the Stock Exchange to see whether it really was a menagerie of bulls and bears. My curiosity was satisfied. When I heard of the excitement down there the other day I tried to persuade my husband to stay away, but he would mix in the fray, as he calls it. I have been trying to persuade him that he has worked long and hard enough to spend the remainder of his years in peace. But he has been at it so constantly that business has become a necessity with him. He seems to care for no other sort of recreation. We have enough to live on comfortably for the balance of our lives, and nobody should need any more than that."

This statement was made recently by Mrs. Russell Sage at the old Sage home in New York, while she was giving her impressions and opinions of the recent Wall street flurry, says the New York American. She denies that she suffered from an attack of vertigo due to worry over the recent crash in stocks and says that he is enjoying the best of health.

"Stocks and bonds once interested me very much," said Mrs. Sage with a smile, "but now, beyond keeping conversationally posted on finance, I suppose I am a tyro. Money is to me only a means to an end, and I believe that when a person has accumulated enough to be comfortable he should cease piling up more. Of course money making becomes a passion if permitted to engross the whole attention of a person, and that is what should be guarded against."

"Society women and women in general," resumed Mrs. Sage, "have been criticised for wasting their time on frivolous things when they should devote more of it to their families and to charity. Why, it takes as much strength and brains and nerve force for a woman to preside over a handsome home or manage a family of children as it does for a man to wear himself out on the Stock Exchange."

"As for women being extravagant, most of the so called ruinous extravagance of women is practiced by those who are trying to buy their way into society. They are very foolish women and should be blushed for. This is always an expensive undertaking and one that no well bred womanly woman would ever be guilty of. The latter makes her own place in her own sphere."

"One of the greatest banes of our American women is this falling under the blandishments of titled, fortune hunting foreigners. Some men of title make good husbands. The majority do not, according to record."

Mrs. Sage paused and searched among a number of memoranda for a notice that had come to her attention recently of a young New York woman who had made the mistake of turning over all her wealth to her husband.

"This young matron," she continued, "told me the other day that she did it because she thought she could trust her husband with her fortune if she could with her life and happiness. What is the result? She has to skip along on a mere pittance of an allowance which she has to beg from him. He is not squandering her money. No; he has put it to excellent use and is adding to it all the time. But his wife is a pauper in the vital sense of the word."

"A wife should have an allowance—not a carte blanche order on her grocer and milliner for what the household needs—but a regular cash allowance or salary. Several women in this city whose husbands are worth millions are driven to borrow money from trades people and have it put on their bills. That is an outrage."

"Here in New York young wives see nothing but wealth and its display. Gorgeous dresses, expensive equipages, lives of luxury and ease are before them as daily examples. This arouses in the average woman of moderate means a spirit of discontent. She is a wonderful creature who can live on a pittance and behold such temptations with equanimity."

"This display of luxury on the part of the rich before the eyes of the poor is a sin and should be punishable by law. It is the cause of more unhappiness and more divorces than any other thing in modern civilization. 'Love in a cottage is quite romantic, but human nature is alike the world over and will not be denied. Some women will always be envious of their more fortunate sisters. A man should be pretty well fixed financially before he is married if he would live happily in New York.'"

The New Joint Commission.

The new joint army and navy commission will be composed of three officers of high rank from the general staff of the army and three officers of like rank from the general board of the navy. It will meet at stated intervals in Washington and map out plans for joint attacks on an enemy in case of war, arrange for the transportation of troops by the navy, plan defenses of naval stations and provide generally for the defense of the coast of the United States.

CHAPTER XVIII.
THE LADY CHARLOTTE.

THE night of the pinto's sale was a night momentous to Gwen, for then it was that the Lady Charlotte's interest in her began; momentous, too, to the Lady Charlotte, for it was that night that brought the Pilot into her life.

I had turned back to the fire, around which the men had fallen into groups, prepared to have an hour's solid delight, for the scene was full of wild and picturesque beauty to me, when the Duke came and touched me on the shoulder.

"Lady Charlotte would like to see you."

"And why, pray?"

"She wants to hear about this affair of Bill's."

We went through the kitchen into the large dining room, at one end of which was a stone chimney and fireplace. Lady Charlotte had declared that she did not much care what kind of a house the Hon. Lord would build for her, but that she must have a fireplace.

She was very beautiful—tall, slight and graceful in every line. There were a reserve and a grand air in her bearing that put people in awe of her. This awe I shared, but as I entered the room she welcomed me with such kindly grace that I felt quite at ease in a moment.

"Come and sit by me," she said, drawing an armchair into the circle about the fire. "I want you to tell us all about a great many things."

"You see what you're in for, Connor," said her husband. "It is a serious business when my lady takes one in hand."

"As he knows to his cost," she said, smiling and shaking her head at her husband.

"So I can testify," put in the Duke.

"Ah! I can't do anything with you," she replied, turning to him.

"Your most abject slave," he replied, with a profound bow.

"If you only were," smiling at him—a little sadly, I thought—"I'd keep you out of all sorts of mischief."

"Quite true, Duke," said her husband. "Just look at him."

The Duke gazed at him a moment or two. "Wonderful!" he murmured. "What a deliverance!"

"Nonsense," broke in Lady Charlotte. "You are turning my mind away from my purpose."

"Is it possible, do you think?" said the Duke to her husband.

"Not in the very least," he replied, "if my experience goes for anything."

But Lady Charlotte turned her back upon them and said to me:

"Now, tell me first about Bill's encounter with that funny little Scotchman."

Then I told her the story of Bill's bluff in my best style, imitating, as I have some small skill in doing, the manner and speech of the various actors in the scene. She was greatly amused and interested.

"And Bill has really got his share ready?" she cried. "It is very clever of him."

"Yes," I replied, "but Bill is only the very humble instrument. The moving spirit is behind."

"Oh, yes, you mean the little girl that owns the pony?" she said. "That's another thing you must tell me about."

"The Duke knows more than I," I replied, shifting the burden to him. "My acquaintance is only of yesterday; his is lifelong."

"Why have you never told me of her?" she demanded, turning to the Duke.

"Haven't I told you of the little Meredith girl? Surely I have," said the Duke hesitatingly.

"Now, you know quite well you have not, and that means you are deeply interested. Oh, I know you well," she said severely.

"He is the most secretive man," she went on to me—shamefully and ungraciously reserved.

The Duke smiled then said lazily: "Why, she's just a child. Why should you be interested in her? No one was," he added sadly, "all misfortune distinguished her."

Her eyes grew soft and her gay manner changed, and she said to the Duke gently, "Tell me of her now."

It was a story of an affair of the heart, his story of Gwen from the time he saw her first, years ago, playing in and out of her father's rambling shack, shy and wild as a young fox. As he went on with his tale his voice dropped into a low, musical tone, and he seemed as if dreaming aloud. Unconsciously he put into the tale much of himself, revealing how great an influence the little child had had upon him and how empty of love his life had been in this lonely land. Lady Charlotte listened with face intent upon him, and even her bluff husband was conscious that something more than usual was happening. He had never heard the Duke break through his proud reserve before.

But when the Duke told the story of Gwen's awful fall, which he did with great graphic power, a little red spot burned upon the Lady Charlotte's pale cheek, and as the Duke finished his tale with the words, "It was her last ride," she covered her face with her hands and cried:

"Oh, Duke, it is horrible to think of! But what splendid courage!"

"Great stuff, eh, Duke?" cried the Hon. Lord, kicking a burning log vigorously.

But the Duke made no reply.

"How is she now, Duke?" said Lady Charlotte.

The Duke looked up as from a dream. "Bright as the morning," he said. Then, in reply to Lady Charlotte's look of wonder, he added:

"The Pilot did it. Connor will tell you. I don't understand it."

"Nor do I either, but I can tell you only what I saw and heard," I answered.

"Tell me," said Lady Charlotte very gently.

Then I told her how, one by one, we had failed to help her, and how the Pilot had ridden up that morning through the canyon, and how he had

"It was her last ride," brought the first light and peace to her by his marvelous pictures of the flowers and ferns and trees and all the wonderful mysteries of that wonderful canyon.

"But that wasn't all," said the Duke quickly as I stopped.

"No," I said slowly; "that was not all by a long way, but the rest I don't understand. That's the Pilot's secret."

"Tell me what he did," said Lady Charlotte softly once more. "I want to know."

"I don't think I can," I replied. "He simply read out of the Scriptures to her and talked."

Lady Charlotte looked disappointed.

"Is that all?" she said.

"It is quite enough for Gwen," said the Duke confidently, "for there she lies, often suffering, always longing for the hills and the free air, but with her face radiant as the flowers of the beloved canyon."

"I must see her," said Lady Charlotte, "and that wonderful Pilot."

"You'll be disappointed in him," said the Duke.

"Oh, I've seen him and heard him, but I don't know him," she replied. "There must be something in him that one does not see at first."

"So I have discovered," said the Duke, and with that the subject was dropped, but not before the Lady Charlotte made me promise to take her to Gwen, the Duke being strangely unwilling to do this for her.

"You'll be disappointed," he said. "She is only a simple little child."

Latest Fashion Notes.

Separate waists are always in demand, this pretty bodice is handsomely trimmed with point de Venise lace, and black velvet ribbon. The yoke is of lace, and extending down the entire front is a broad lace band, which runs around the waist just under the arms and also just above the waist line. These bands of lace are very effective, by finished with narrow black velvet ribbon three rows of which also appear on the cuffs. The sleeves may be made elbow length with deep cuffs, same as the cut. Corticelli sewing silk is generally used on a waist of this kind, which is made over an unlined lining of thin idea silk, and is hooked under the arm.

Black is always a safe color for an elderly woman to select. Also some shades in gunmetal and deep purple are very becoming to women with grey hair. These may be trimmed with white facings, the jackets often showing a jabot in front, which gives a soft full effect. Crepe de Chine is also much used and is deservedly popular. A grey crepe de Chine trimmed with black, or white trimmings, is most charming for an elderly woman, the white softening the severity of the dead black.

ROE EMERSON'S

BLOW TO ZANESVILLE.

It is Reported That the Big Schultz Soap Works Will be Dismantled and Moved Elsewhere—Sale of the Plant is Confirmed.

Zanesville, O., Aug. 18.—The severest blow ever struck at the business interests of Zanesville was the sale of the Schultz & Hoge Soapworks—the Star Soap factory.

While Mr. Hoge has so far expressed the belief that the immense factory will be operated here under the management of Frank Grace, who has been the general manager for the past few years, it is known that the plant's future operations here will only last as long as the supply on hand lasts.

As soon as the stock is disposed of and the factory supplies cleaned out, the immense plant, which occupies more than a city square and is almost a little town in itself, will be dismantled. That means that a $500,000 industry will degenerate into a vacant plant not worth more than $25,000 and worth nothing to Zanesville.

The sale of the plant to Proctor & Gamble is confirmed by Mr. Hoge, though the figures involved in the deal are not made public. However, it is known that the stock held by William Schultz, amounting to 1409 shares, was sold for not less than $100 per share, in compliance with the order of the probate court.

It is generally believed that the purchase price was not less than a half million dollars, while some go so far as to assert that the money consideration involved was not a cent less than $800,000. The plant employed from 175 to 200 people every day in the year, and three-fourths of the employees were of the high salaried sort.

From that it will be seen that the blow dealt at business Zanesville, is a deadly one; more crushing than the practical abandonment of the two million dollar tube plant which employed more people but the pay roll of which was not near so much as that at the soap factory. Mr. Hoge, since the death of the late Robert Schultz, and the physical degeneration of William Schultz, has had the practical management of the plant on his own hands.

DIRT, FUMES AND NOISE IS OBJECTIONABLE.

Several Granville People Oppose Erection of New Heating Plant at Denison and Enter Suit.

In the case of Maria L. Follett, Sarah Follett Jones, Theo. G. Baker, Hannah G. Swing, Cyrus S. Williams and Fidelia Rose against Denison University of Granville, and Contractor J. C. Linn of this city, the college and contractor have been temporarily enjoined from erecting a hot water heating plant on inlot 90 and from constructing the same thereon and equipping it.

A temporary injunction was granted by Judge W. C. Seward as prayed for. The plaintiffs say that there never have been manufactories in the village and for that reason Granville has been noted as a desirable location for residences; that a large number of people of culture, means and refinement who are retired from active business life, and who have been drawn to Granville by reason of its exceptionally desirable features as a residence place, and its peaceful and healthful surroundings.

The plaintiffs claim that the operation of a steam hot water plant continually throughout the night and day during the fall, winter and spring seasons of the year would consume a large amount of coal or slack, and that the operation of the machinery will produce constant noises and vibrations, and large volumes of smoke, soot and noxious vapors will be constantly emitted from the furnace and boilers of the plant, which will vitiate the atmosphere in the neighborhood and will injure the health of the residents in the vicinity, and produce great damage and injury to the plaintiffs and all residents of the village, and will create a continuous nuisance.

Judge John David Jones and Kibler & Kibler are the attorneys for the plaintiffs.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

China silk waists with broad bands of cluny or yokes of valenciennes are immensely popular.

Probably most women will be glad to learn that drooping effects will not go out with the coming season.

For wear with pongee gowns pongee colored hosiery is offered. Pongee colored silk stockings are extremely smart.

Jet fringes, jet collars and jetted trimmings of all sorts have increasing prestige, but chiefly in connection with sheer fabrics.

Knuchings are ubiquitous on the sheer summer frocks, and by their aid one of the charming thin materials may be made up with practically no other trimming and at slight expense.

A smart outing hat is one of the three conured white felts trimmed with a fold of white silk and with a military pompon in white on one side.

The coming form of the Louis XVI. coat for street costumes requires a skirt that is molded to the hips, yet full and free at the bottom, and loose three-quarter garments will also necessitate a great deal of fullness in the lower part of the skirt.

"Well, papa says," replied the child, "that rabbits multiply rapidly and Bunny won't do it."—Town Talk.
